

GOLFTEC Singapore Announces Innovative "Commitment to Improvement" Package, Making Elite Coaching More Accessible

GOLFTEC Singapore, the leader in premium golf instruction and club fitting, today unveiled its new "Commitment to Improvement" lesson package. Designed to provide golfers with a structured, long-term pathway to lower scores, this package bundles state-of-the-art swing analysis with a curated series of coaching sessions and emphasizing the unparalleled value clients receive when they book a lesson with GOLFTEC.

The new package directly addresses the common challenge of sporadic practice by encouraging dedicated, guided skill development. Clients who book a lesson with GOLFTEC under this program will first undergo a comprehensive Swing Evaluation, utilizing GOLFTEC's proprietary TECSWING™ 3D motion capture and premium launch monitor technology. This initial assessment provides a clear blueprint of the golfer's swing dynamics, identifying the root causes of inconsistency. Following the evaluation, golfers will embark on a multi-session plan with a certified GOLFTEC Coach, focusing on sequential skill-building with practiced assignments between lessons.

“Our core philosophy is that lasting improvement comes from a combination of accurate measurement, expert coaching, and structured practice,” said Mr. David Chen, Head of Instruction at GOLFTEC Singapore. “The ‘Commitment to Improvement’ package formalizes this process. It’s a statement that we are invested in our clients’ journey, not just a single session. When a golfer decides to book a lesson with GOLFTEC through this program, they are not just buying time; they are investing in a personalized roadmap to achieving their specific golfing goals, whether it's more fairways, better ball-striking, or overall lower scores.”

The package includes video and data access via the GOLFTEC app, allowing students to review their swing metrics and coach's notes anytime, reinforcing the learning process. This seamless integration of in-person coaching and digital review tools represents the modern approach to golf mastery that GOLFTEC champions.

GOLFTEC Singapore's facilities in Great World and Raffles City are equipped with the latest in golf simulation and fitting technology, providing an all-weather, performance-focused environment. The launch of this package underscores the company's mission to make data-driven, professional golf instruction the standard for serious players in the region.
